The performance of the products may be adversely affected by the performance of individual companies, changes in the market conditions, micro and

QED Capital Advisors LLP

- 6.3 macro factors and forces affecting capital markets in particular like interest rate risk, credit risk, and liquidity risk. and reinvestment risk. Derivative/future and options products are affected by various risks including but not limited to counter party risk, market risk, valuation risk, liquidity risk, basis risk and other risk. Besides the price of the underlying asset, the volatility, tenor and interest rates affect the pricing of derivatives. In case of stock lending, risk relate to the defaults from counterparties with regard to securities lent and the corporate benefits accruing thereon, inadequacy of the collateral and settlement risks.
- 6.4 Past performance of the Portfolio Manager does not indicate the future performance of the products or any other future Product of the Portfolio Manager. The Portfolio Manager is not responsible or liable for any loss resulting from the operations of the products/ Securities. Each Portfolio will be exposed to various risks depending on the investment objective, investment strategy and asset allocation. Non-diversified Portfolio tends to be more volatile than diversified portfolio.
- 6.5 The Client acknowledges that he has read the 'Risks' contained herein and the Disclosure Documents in connection with investing the funds in derivatives as well as read the "Risks" contained in the product brochure/product presentation as shall be furnished from time to time in respect of each product in which the client shall invest and is informed, aware and has understood the risks associated with investing the Assets in the capital and money market instruments including derivatives but not limited to equities and other securities.
- 6.6 The Client further acknowledges that investments may be made in index/stock/stocks basket linked, privately placed non-convertible debentures having some equity index as underlying, which could affect the liquidity of the Client's Portfolio and that the Client has read and understood the specific risk factors and disclosures pertinent to structured notes like index/stock/stocks basket linked debentures and securitized debt instrument as mentioned in the disclosure document and the product brochure/product presentation, as shall be provided from time to time.

- 6.9 As and when the Portfolio Manager trades in the derivative products, there are risk factors and issues concerning the use of derivatives that investors should understand. Derivatives require the maintenance of adequate controls to monitor the transactions and the embedded market risks that a derivative adds to the Portfolio. Besides the price of the underlying asset, the volatility, tenor and interest rates affect the pricing of derivatives.
- 6.10 Other risks in using derivatives include but are not limited to : (a) Credit Risk – this occurs when a counterparty defaults on a transaction before settlement and therefore, the Portfolio Manager is compelled to negotiate with another counter party, at the then prevailing (possibly unfavourable) market price, in order to maintain the validity of the hedge. For exchange traded derivatives, the risk is mitigated as the exchange provides the guaranteed settlement but one takes the performance risk on the exchange. (b) Market Liquidity risk where the derivatives cannot be sold (unwound) at prices that reflect the underlying assets, rates and indices. (c) Model Risk, the risk of mis-pricing or improper valuation of derivatives. (d) Basis Risk arises when the instrument used as a hedge does not match the movement in the instrument/underlying asset being hedged. The risks may be inter-related also; for e.g. interest rate movements can affect equity prices, which could influence specific issuer/industry assets.
